Chapter 175: Reclaiming Strength and Establishing Domains

The Lesser Divine: Duo Dragons, Sung Ye-Jun and Sung Ye-Rin, understood the wisdom of their grandfather’s decision to recalibrate their inherited power. Inspired to optimize their divine potential, they chose to reallocate the power distributed to their clones.

---

1. Reclaiming Power

Sung Ye-Jun and Sung Ye-Rin summoned their clones from their respective missions. With deliberate precision, they withdrew 10% of their power from each of their three clones. This act restored 30% of their original strength to their bodies, leaving their clones with 10% power each.

This adjustment ensured that:

The Duo Dragons regained a significant portion of their divine essence to further expand their inner worlds and govern their realms.

Their clones remained formidable, capable of fulfilling their duties while adapting to operate with reduced strength.

---

2. The Castles of the Duo Dragons

With their reclaimed power, the Duo Dragons turned their focus toward solidifying their domains. Their castles, crafted beneath the Divine Triad's fortresses, symbolized their sovereignty as the Lesser Divine Duo.

Sung Ye-Jun’s Domain: Inferna Draconis

Castle Name: Inferna Draconis

Location: Beneath Eternis Draconis, Sung Su-Ho’s fortress.

Description: Inferna Draconis was a masterpiece of crimson and obsidian hues, radiating an aura of power and resilience. The walls shimmered with the flames of an eternal dragon fire, and the structure pulsed with mana drawn from the depths of Sung Ye-Jun’s seven-layered inner worlds.

Symbol: A dark crimson dragon coiled around a blazing sun.

Sung Ye-Rin’s Domain: Lunaris Citadel

Castle Name: Lunaris Citadel

Location: Beneath Umbra Citadel, Sung Jin-Woo’s fortress.

Description: Lunaris Citadel was a radiant silver fortress that seemed to glow under a perpetual moonlight. Its spires reached toward the heavens, and its halls were infused with shadow and light, embodying Sung Ye-Rin’s duality as a silver dragon and a guardian of balance.

Symbol: A silver dragon entwined around a crescent moon.

---

3. Strengthening Their Domains

With their power restored and their castles established, the Duo Dragons continued to fortify their realms:

Inferna Draconis became a bastion of fiery determination, housing legions of dragonkin and elite warriors loyal to Sung Ye-Jun. The castle’s core burned with a dragon flame that could incinerate any invader.

Lunaris Citadel became a sanctuary of serenity and strength, attracting celestial beings and shadow warriors who revered Sung Ye-Rin’s wisdom and grace.

Both castles stood as testaments to their rulers’ strength and vision, firmly anchoring their legacies within the multiverse.

---

4. A Message of Unity

The Duo Dragons, now revitalized, sent a message to their followers:

“Our strength is our own, and our dominion is eternal. Stand with us as we shape the realms beneath the Divine Triad’s guidance. Together, we shall rise to greatness.”

Their words resonated across the multiverse, inspiring their subjects and reaffirming their commitment to their roles as protectors and creators.

---

5. The Divine Triad’s Blessing

From their thrones above, the Divine Triad observed the Duo Dragons’ actions with approval. Sung Jin-Woo, the God of Shadows and Life, addressed them:

“Balance and growth are the keys to divinity. Your actions honor the essence of creation. Continue to forge your path, for the multiverse looks to you as its guardians.”

With this, the Duo Dragons solidified their positions as the next generation of divine leaders, preparing for the challenges and triumphs that lay ahead.